

Time for Bubbe

Sharon Rosenblatt Kramer

Pictures by Michael Sayre

“Don’t worry, Bubbe, I have all the time in the world.”
—Boychik

6-year-old Boychik loves taking care of his great-bubbe once a week in her big-city apartment.

Join their adventures as they nosh, play, reminisce, cook – and learn a bissel of Yiddish along the way.

Snuggle up and share this story with anyone you have all the time in the world for!

Includes bonus Glossary of Yiddish Words and Bubbe’s Recipe for the Best Noodle Kugel Ever

About the Author

SHARON ROSENBLATT KRAMER grew up in Chicago. But she has also lived in Los Angeles, New York, Albuquerque, and Minneapolis.

Sharon has always been a teacher of some kind, her students ranging from 3rd and 5th graders to attorneys and ex-convicts. Now retired, she keeps busy with memoir writing, photography, urban sketching, and enjoying her grandchildren.

Praise for Time for Bubbe:

“...an authentic portrait of the great-grandson and Bubbe’s sweet convincing relationship...both joyful and interactive...for folks of all ages.”
— Janie Friedman Isackson, retired educator, DePaul University, Chicago

“What a great way to connect the two generations with love and respect for each other.” — Nancy Koehler, retired 3rd grade teacher, Skokie, IL

“Time for Bubbe is so much fun to read...every week, Bubbe and Boychik are taking care of each other.” — Beth Finke, Author of Writing Out Loud: What a Blind Teacher Learned from Leading a Memoir Class for Seniors

“...heartwarming and very relatable...[A] great read-aloud for families to share special memories about their own grandmothers.”
— Janifer Zamora, Librarian, Albuquerque Public Library
